THE AUGUSTA COLLEGE LYCEUM SERIES

Traditionally, the Lyceum was an organization in a town or a village that obtained culturally enlightening speakers and groups for the entertainment of the general populace. Although Augusta College is not a city or a village, it has been described as a community.

The Augusta College Lyceum committee for this year presented for this community such various forms of enlightment as the Ramsey Lewis Trio for music; offered a current newsmaker, the defense lawyer William Kunstler; drama with the National Shakespeare Company's performance of Moliere's "The Miser"; and a scholar, Dr. Albert Ellis, a specialist in Human sexuality.

Plus the committee also brought back to this campus two popular offerings from the past Lyceum series: Russ Burgess, noted Parapsychologist, and The Proposition, an improvisional theatre group.

FILM SERIES

This year the Augusta College Film Series outdid itself and locked up a fine play bill in its offering of movies for the college community.

In the past the film series had a few good films, but this year there were 19 excellent movies to be viewed such as PLAY IT AGAIN SAM, SLAUGHTER-HOURS FIVE, 8½, DR. STRANGELOVE, CLAIRE'S KNEE, LITTLE BIG MAN, and THE LAST PICTURE SHOW.

And the projector still rolls with an even more impressive list of films for the coming year.

GENE COTTON

Fall quarter began well with Committee in concert, an improvisational theatre group which went over well with the audience, but Teen Angel arrived the next weekend and left with a bad reception.

Winter quarter was a drag with, Dave Loggins canceling his date with A.C. student body. Homecoming sagged with a defeat, and a few students went to see Gene Cotton. He sang every now and then, introduced his wife, and talked a lot about his savior.

A.C.

CONCERT SERIES

The students eagerly waited for spring and the good times. They got a bluegrass festival that was a hit with scholars of the down home picking and singing art form. The feature was Bill Monroe and the Blue Mountain Boys. Monroe has delighted audiences across the country since the 1930's and has become known as the "Father of Bluegrass".

A.C. BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL

However, the big event of the season was Rick Nelson and his back-up band, The Stone Canyon Band. The students' reactions to this former child television star were mixed. The noise was bad, and the Real Stone Canyon wasn't along to support Ozzie and Harriet's youngest son.

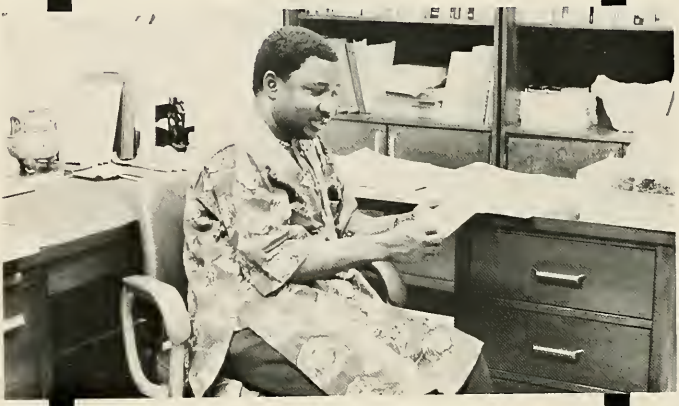
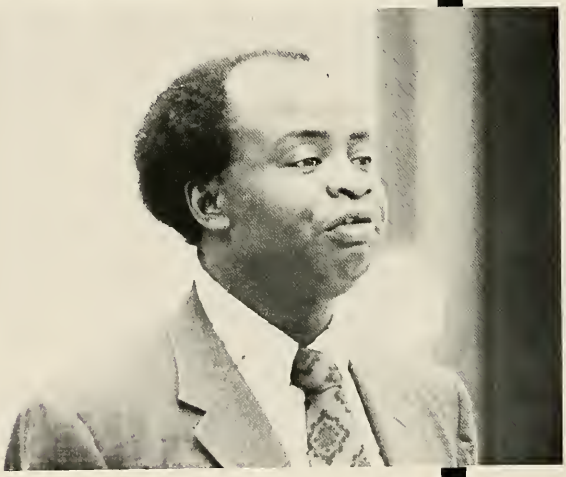
CULLUM THIRD WORLD CULTURE PROGRAM





The Cullum Third World Culture program has been presented at Augusta College for the past three years. In 1973 the program was initiated with a study of India, in 1974 Brazil, and this year with Nigeria.

This year's program covered many aspects of Nigerian culture with speakers lecturing about economics, history, politics and tribal witches; movies were also viewed by the A.C. students involved with the study of this African country.

Last year, the drama people did a Brazilian play which was warmly received by both the students and citizens of the community. This year they staged "The Strong Breed" by Wole Soyinka, a Nigerian playwright.

Next year, the 200th birthday of the United States of America, the Cullum program will study this country and all its diversity.

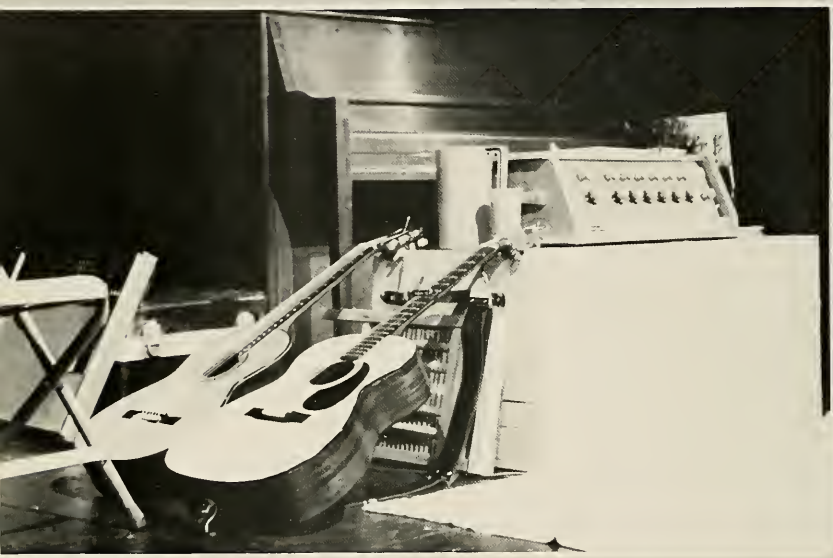
A.C. COFFEEHOUSE



What doles out free popcorn, charges two bits, and has great entertainment — The Augusta College Chateau.

The Coffeehouse established itself in its second year of operation. Students packed the house many nights to see Marx Brothers films, the Rice Brothers in performance, Ball, Taylor, and Ball, Ross & Bowles, and many other groups. And while the students watched, they ate bushels of free popcorn and enjoyed themselves.

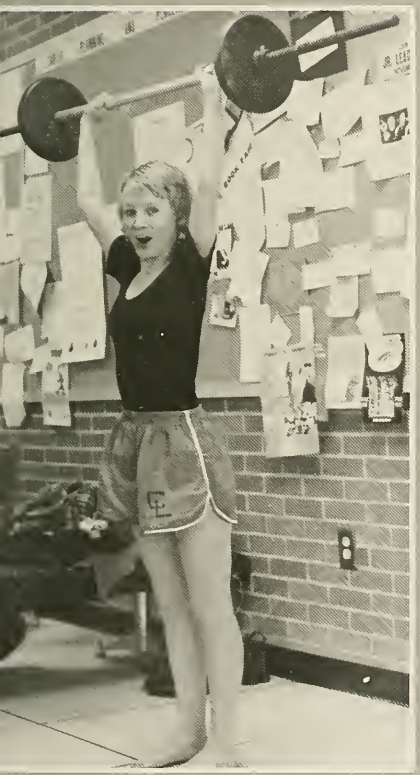
ROLE REVERSAL DAY

A beauty king, female swabbies, women's self defense exhibitions, and numerous other examinations of woman's role in today's world was the purpose of Role Reversal Day sponsored by the Augusta College Sociology Club in late November 1974.

Of course, Jay Bower, Basketball player and Beauty King, didn't expect to see himself on the Six o'clock news that afternoon, but he did.



FRENCH

SPONSORED BY THE A.C. FRENCH CLUB

A french cafe, chocolate sandwiches, cheese and bread, flowers, combined with a stylish vendome were some of the ingredients of a fair put together by the French Club in Fall 1974 as a fund raising device. It only lasted a day, but for that day the C.A.C. plaza had a definite Gallic atmosphere.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The Augusta College Student Government did not give the pie in the sky to its constituents, but instead gave them some marquees and a test file.

The marquees now stand around laden with posters advertising the various on-campus events for the week. The student can now go to the library and look at the tests that his teacher used to examine the acquried wisdom of the past quarter scholars.

"WE NEED YOUR SUPPORT"

A. C. BAND

The A.C. Student Band under the direction of John Scott, music instructor, provides most of the warm-up and half time entertainment for the Jaguar Basketball games. The band, besides creating the musical enthusiasm for the athletic contests, also plays for other school functions, such as concerts and graduation.

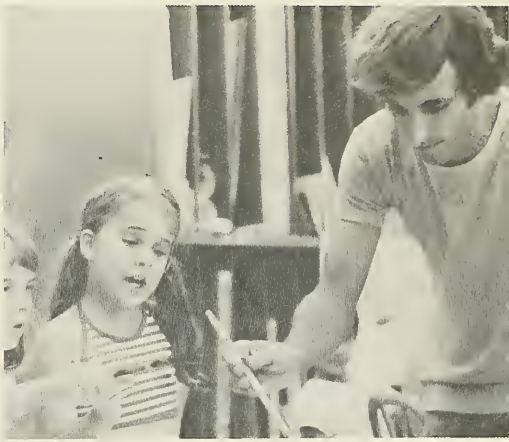
A.C. — TELEVISION

In Fall 1974, Augusta College expanded into another area of education with the opening of a child development center on Watkins Street. The center was designed to educate the three to five year old child.

Fall 1974 marked another development in the relationship of the child and college with the relocation of the Augusta College Baby Sitting Service to 1055 Katherine Street.

The service proved itself to just as popular with the student parents as it had been for the first two years of operation.



A.C. BABY SITTING SERVICE & SUMMER DAY CAMP

A.C. FOOD

The Augusta College Food Co-op was founded in the 1973-74 school year to provide a natural alternative to the local grocery stores. Since that time, the co-op has expanded both in members and items, and has moved to the Boykin Wright Hall located near Augusta College.

Augusta College Jaguars won 19, lost 9 games split their conference standing with a 5-5 record. But the outstanding triumphs of this year at the A.C. field house were the Jaguars' defeat of Valdosta by one point, but a win is good as a wink to the Spotted Cat. The team also had a nine game winning streak which started with the defeat of Piedmont, score of 129-72, and ended with Armstrong state breaking a claw with an 80-73 loss for the A.C. team.

Speaking of losses, the Jaguars lost two valuable members of the team this year. Chick Ludman, who could do no wrong on the court or in the class room, graduated in the spring. Coach Lenny Carlson announced at the end of spring quarter that he was going over the big water to coach Basketball in Europe.

They will be missed.

Augusta College's main nemesis last year was the Valdosta State Blazers. And the way the season started this year, Valdosta State had rubbed the Jaguars' noses with a twenty point defeat earlier in the season. But at home on the night of January 25th, Augusta College made revenge a fine art form with an one point defeat of the Blazers.

In the campus newspaper's account of that game, A.C. came close to losing several times throughout the game, but as the article in the Jan. 31th BELL RINGER stated, "With only one minute and eleven seconds left in the game, the score was dismal 67-74.

The Jags put on a full-court press and held the Blazers at 74, while they made six points. With only five or six seconds left in the game, Tommy Ayers put the Jags ahead 75-74.

The Blazers took the ball in and tried it to Alston, their crack shot, but he tripped and fell, and the clock ran out."

The Valdosta coach expressed sour grapes, but Marvin Vanover's face was wreathed in a big smile of sweet revenge.

From Piedmont College to U.S C. at Spartanburg, with Valdosta St. as a high point, the Jaguars played through a nine game winning streak during winter quarter.

The secret to this burst of victory was not a few good heros of the previous teams, but a team made up of many good players. Vanover stated that he was able to substutite at any time, and this was the device that made the streak possible.

Of course, it ended with Armstrong's defeat of the Jaguars, but while it lasted, the Jaguars could do no wrong.

GOLF

RECORD: 30-5

Golf, besides being one of the reasons that Augusta was placed on the map, also provided some glamour to Augusta College Athletics this year.

The Golf team posted a 30-5 record. The team triumphed all season, but met with a little disaster when it placed fourth in the South Atlantic Conference tournament held at Savannah.

TENNIS

RECORD: 12-2

The Augusta College Jaguar tennis team had a bout with Lady Fortune's whims this year. She smiled on them during the season, and the team gained twelve wins and two losses for the year. But at the conference tourney at Savannah, the lady frowned, and the Jaguars came home with a fourth.

WOMEN'S INTERCOLLEGIATE SPORTS COMES TO A.C.

This year was very important for Women in Georgia and Augusta College. The state legislature voted down the E.R.A., and this school established serious women sports with intercollegiate basketball and tennis.

The lady Jaguars, besides being a first for Augusta College, showned their sharpened claws to their opponents and gave their fans an example of how basketball should be played.

The lady Jags ended the year with an 11-6 record, but throughout the season, people thought they played a good brand of ball.

Women's tennis did not fare as well as basketball, but from the first, they held their own against more seasoned teams. The team accumulated a 4-5 record, and Mary Ardiff, number one seed, was chosen to tour Mexico with the Southern Comets to play various Mexican teams.

ADMINI-STRATION

DR. CHRISTENBERRY

Dr. George Chrisenberry, the President of Augusta College, went to China this spring with 23 representatives of American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

They observed the Chinese educational systems and discussed with their Chinese counterparts the possibilities of exchange programs between American and Chinese colleges and universities.
